Preparing your site

When planning the installation of your new sauna, it's important to consider the location carefully. Some common locations include a deck, patio, or even just a gravel bed. If you are installing a wood-burning sauna, you should check with your municipality for any clearance requirements from structures, trees, and fences. If you are planning to use an electric sauna, you will need to consider where the trench for the cables will need to be dug. It's essential to carefully evaluate all of these factors to ensure that your sauna is installed safely and efficiently.

Wood Stove

Included in base price.

Our saunas come standard equipped with unique, externally-loaded wood stoves. Unlike most wood stove types, an externally-loaded wood stove allows you to load up much more wood, and plus keeps wood shavings and ash out of the main sauna chamber.

Electric Heater

+$400

It is easy to upgrade to an electric heater. Larger saunas use a HARVIA KiP-80 8kW 40A electric heater, smaller ones a 6kW variant. Heater installation and permit is not included. Customers wishing to install an electric sauna should contact a qualified electrician.

Panoramic Window

+$999

This unique, custom-made tinted window affords you the view of a lifetime, while maintaining your privacy.
